

Russian Government Scholarship

Russian State Hydrometeorological University (RSHU) Saint-Petersburg (Russia), being a component of Regional Training Center of World Meteorological Organisation (WMO) in Russia, approach to you on the issue concerning enrollee or specialists who would like to study in Russia by governmental quota in the 2019/2020 academic year and also who would like to apply for a WMO fellowship.

The quota is available for the following programs:

Bachelor (4 years):

03.03.02 Physics
05.03.04 Hydrometeorology
05.03.05 Applied Hydrometeorology
05.03.06 Ecology
09.03.03 Applied Informatics
35.03.08 Water bioresources and aquaculture
38.03.05 Business-informatics (IT)

Master (2 years):

05.04.06 Ecology and nature management
05.04.05 Applied Hydrometeorology
38.04.01 Economics

PhD studies:

25.00.27 - Hydrology of land, water resources
25.00.28 – Oceanology
25.00.30 - Meteorology, climatology
25.00.35 - Geoinformatics
25.00.36 – Geoecology

About RSHU:

RSHU provides a wide range of programs in areas such as: meteorology, hydrology, oceanology, ecology and physics of the environment, information systems and geotechnology, economics, social and human science.

Our teaching staff makes up to 500 academics featuring many merited and honoured Russian and foreign scientists and lecturers. The teaching in the university is conducted in Russian

We offer one-year Russian language courses for foreign students. These courses are designed for students who intend to pursue degree education in Russia and delivered at the Preparatory Faculty. University-governed accommodations are available for foreign students for the whole period of studies.

For more information, please write: ums@rshu.ru

and visit our website:
<http://apply.rshu.ru/>

