

CaGIS News

June 2017

Welcome to CaGIS News, an occasional publication of the Cartography and Geographic Information Society that provides information and news about our society and its members.

International Cartographic Conference 2017

CaGIS is hosting the International Cartographic Association (ICA) in Washington, DC, July 2 to 7. This will be a major gathering of cartographers and geographic information scientists for workshops, talks, seminars, technical tours, exhibits, and exceptional social and networking events. <http://icc2017.org/>

Keynote speakers

Tom Patterson, Senior Cartographer, US National Park Service

Robert Cardillo, Director of the US National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency

Lee Schwartz, The Geographer, US Department of State

Mikel Maron, Mapbox, OpenStreetMap Foundation.

Presentations

More than 450 presentations and 160 posters in 160 sessions, supported by the 28 commissions of ICA, bring you the best of cartography and GIScience from around the world. Explore the cartography conference of the year! Find the presentations that excite you. Check out the full program below!

<https://www.eventscribe.com/2017/ICC/agenda.asp?h=Full%20Schedule&BCFO=PJG>

Cartographic exhibit

From the 70 ICA countries comes an international cartographic exhibit of nearly 500 maps, charts, digital products, and educational resources. In addition, the Barbara Petchenik Children's World Map Competition will be on display. A cartography in art exhibit by world-renowned artist Mary Edna Fraser is a highlight.

Workshops and technical tours

ICA Commission workshops and unique technical tours provide a great opportunity to learn new ideas. These are filling rapidly. Sign up now!

Register now: <http://icc2017.org/attendee-registration-form/>

Eric Anderson, Executive Director, CaGIS