2nd International Youth Orienteering Training Camp in China

What is it?

Chinese orienteering club – Deer-O – based in Nanjing (just north-west of Shanghai) are organising an international youth orienteering training camp partly sponsored by the Chinese Bureau of Sport. This year is the second time that they are putting on the camp. Last year, orienteers from the UK, Czech Republic, Norway and Sweden took part. This year, they plan to get even more countries involved. The aim of the camp is to see what orienteering in China is like, to make international friends and to learn a bit about Chinese culture & history.

Who is it for?

The training camp is aimed at children between the ages of 12 – 18. There is an upper limit of 12 participants per each country.

When and where?

The camp will take place from 24.-31.10.2018. It will be based in and around Nanjing. Participants are expected to arrive at Shanghai Pudong International airport on 24.10., and depart from the same airport on 1.11.2018

Price

The cost of food, accommodation, transport and cultural programme during the training camp will be covered by the Chinese sports bureau. The cost of flight tickets, visas, insurance and vaccinations (if necessary) will be paid by the participants themselves. Each country is responsible for organising their own flights. As for visas, invitation letters will be sent out from China. It will then be up to each country to apply for their own visas with the help of the invitation letters.

Group leaders from each country will be responsible for looking after the juniors from their country throughout the camp. Once in China, all logistics will be taken care of by the Chinese. However, it is up to the group leaders from each country to obtain permission from the parents and to ensure that all participants have adequate travel insurance. This training camp is not insured by any international orienteering organization, and participation in the camp is purely at everyone's own risk.

What to expect?

Orienteering in China is less developed than in Europe. Terrain is mostly going to consist of parkland with a limited level of navigational difficulty. Most of the training is likely to take part in or close to Nanjing. Having said that, last year, we visited a bamboo forest and an orange orchard, which provided for very novel orienteering experience. Local orienteers from Deer-O are likely to be younger (around 10 -12 years). Peer-coaching will be an important part of the training sessions.

The main aim of this tour is not to improve the juniors' orienteering skills. The main aim is to get a taste of Chinese orienteering, to meet new friends and to see for yourself what China is like. The cultural element is very important, so we would especially encourage those who are keen to see different cultures to come. China has a very rich history, and there will be time to explore a number of historical sites. As for food, China's cuisine is very different from what we are used to in Europe. It is impossible to guarantee fully meat-free meals, so strict vegetarians and vegans would struggle. Same goes for people with strong allergies, such as nut allergies.

For a better idea of what to expect, you can read an article written by one of last year's participants. We also recommend a short video from last year's camp produced by Deer-O. See the appendix for a preliminary itinerary as well as for a peek of some of the maps that were used last year.

How to apply?

It is up to each country to decide which children to take onto the camp. Once decided, email the names of participants to Sun Yi on sunyi_seu@163.com and cc me zuza.strakula@gmail.com on the email. Should there be any problem in communication, I will be able to help out.

Who is the organiser ?

The person in charge of organising the training camp is called Sun Yi. He is the founder of the Deer-O orienteering club.

My name is Zuzana (Zuzka) Strakova, and I am going to be leading the Czech group. I will be assisting you and Sun Yi in communicating, should it be needed, as I can speak Chinese. I studied Chinese at university, which is how I met Sun Yi during my year abroad.

If you have any questions, feel free to email me or Sun Yi.
